

Coronavirus (COVID -19) Access Letter

To Whom it may Concern:

The Government of Canada has enacted a Declaration of Emergency to protect the public during the COVID-19 outbreak. Pursuant to that declaration, the Government has ordered the closure of all non-essential workplaces. The Government, however, has designated "Telecommunications and IT infrastructure / service providers" as an essential workplace that can continue to operate. Section 15 of the list states:

"Businesses providing telecommunications services (phone, internet, radio, cell phones etc.) as well as support facilities such as call centers necessary for their operation and delivery".

This order covers all telecommunication companies and their employees, suppliers and third-party contractors.
